DETAILED ACTION

Priority

1. Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.

Claim Objections

2. Claims 3 and 5-11 are objected to because of the following informalities.

Appropriate correction is required.

In claim 3, line 6, the word "squire" should be changed to – square --.

In claim 5, line 3, the phrase "the same substrate" should be changed to – a same substrate --.

In claim 7, line 7, the word "squire" should be changed to – square --. In line 9, the word – quantities – should be inserted after the word "physical".

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

3. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

4. Claims 7 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 7, line 4, the phrase "the three substrates" is vague and lacks antecedent basis. Which substrates are being referred to - the fixed substrates claimed in claim 7 or the movable substrate claimed in claim 7 or the substrate as claimed in claim 5? Please clarify. In lines 6-7, the phrase "the first and second capacitors" lacks antecedent basis.

In claim 8, line 3, the phrase "the first and second capacitors" lacks antecedent basis. In line 5, the phrase "the first and second capacitors" lacks antecedent basis.

Double Patenting

5. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

6. Claims 1-11 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-7 of U.S. Patent 6,668,614 (Itakura) in view of either U.S. Patent 6,257,061 (Nonoyama et al.) or U.S. Patent No. 6,483,322 (Aoyama et al.).

Itakura claims a plurality of sensing units for sensing a physical quantity to output a voltage signal depending on the sensed physical quantity; a plurality of processor; and a controller to control the plurality of processors at predetermined different timings shifted from each other. Although the conflicting claims are not identical since Itakura does not explicitly claim the processors for sampling and holding the voltage signal since, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the references, Nonoyama et al. and Aoyama et al., teach and suggest a processor having a sample and hold circuit. It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention to have readily recognize the advantages and desirability of employing a sample and hold circuit as suggested and taught by Nonoyama et al. and Aoyama et al. to the device of Itakura to periodically sample the voltage signal and to hold every sample for a given time interval and to output the sample wherein the voltage signal is different between measuring modes or periods.

With regards to claims 2-11, the claimed features/elements (i.e. a C/V converter, fixed electrodes, movable electrode, driving square wave signals) in these claims are further claimed in Itakura or suggested or taught in the references of Nonoyama et al. and Aoyama et al.

Conclusion

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

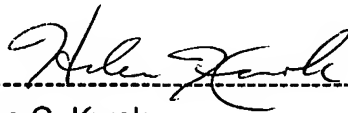

The references cited are related to sensor including a sample and hold circuit, a C/V converter and a controller.
